PREFACE

THE first Dictionary of stenographic outlines ever published in connection with Pitman's Shorthand was produced from lithographic transfers written by the Inventor of Phonography in the year 1846, and had the following title: A Phonographic Dictionary of the English Language; containing the most usual words to the number of Twelve Thousand. By Isaac Pitman. In succeeding years improved editions of the work written by the same hand were produced by the lithographic process; but in 1878, with the title of A Phonetic Shorthand and Pronouncing Dictionary of the English Language, the Inventor of Phonography produced a Dictionary of larger size, and for the first time the shorthand characters were engraved on metal blocks. Besides the shorthand outline, this edition gave the pronunciation of each word in phonetic printing, and also its definition. The work contained twenty-six thousand shorthand forms. In subsequent editions the phonotypic pronunciations and the definitions were discarded, and the Dictionary was issued with merely the common longhand spelling of the words after the shorthand outlines; while, from time to time, considerable additions were made to the vocabulary. The Dictionary containing shorthand outlines and meanings was subsequently revived, and is now known as Pitman's English and Shorthand Dictionary. The New Era edition contains outlines and definitions for over 60,000 words.

In the present Edition of the Shorthand Dictionary is a valuable "Introduction" which explains at length the treatment of particular classes of words, and this feature will, no doubt, prove of great service to students, teachers, and practitioners.

The Publishers tender their hearty thanks to the large number of correspondents who have contributed suggestions with a view to ensuring the greater accuracy and completeness of the Dictionary.

INTRODUCTION

IN the present work standard forms are furnished for the words of the English language, written in accordance with the rules of Pitman's Shorthand (New Era Edition). Every writer of the system is aware that the use of the many regularized abbreviating devices which results in brief and facile outlines being obtained for the great majority of words without the help of any arbitrary abbreviation, also involves, in many instances, a choice between two or more possible forms, and the SHORTHAND DICTIONARY provides those outlines which experience has shown can be recommended for general adoption. Hence the importance and utility of the work as a book of reference for teachers, students, and practitioners.

In this edition of the Dictionary some further words have been incorporated in the Appendix.

Every effort has been made to render the Dictionary reliable and consistent in regard to pronunciation and the selection of the shorthand forms. There will, no doubt, be differences of opinion with regard to the outlines for certain words, since a form which is the most convenient to one writer is not invariably so to another writer. It is strongly recommended, however, that the closest possible adherence to Dictionary outlines be observed, since they have been decided upon as the result of experience and the most careful thought. No Dictionary outline, therefore, should be rejected in favour of another until an attempt has been made to ascertain whether there is not some special reason for its adoption. It is obvious that uniformity of outline is especially helpful in the case of writers who have to read or transcribe one another's notes.

PRONUNCIATION—REPRESENTATION OF VOWELS, ETC.

With respect to pronunciation, this has been carefully checked throughout, the New English Dictionary (edited by the late Sir James A. H. Murray, LL.D., and others) being taken as the authority in practically all cases, so far as that work is available.

The following observations with regard to the vowel sounds, etc., in certain classes of words may be found helpful—

(a) The sound of the vowel "a" in such words as bar, harm, embark, is ah.

There are, on the other hand, many words in which the vowel "a" before r has a short or indistinct sound; e.g., tariff, globular, pillar, Compare tarry (adjective) with tarry (verb).

(b) aw and not ah is used in such words as taunt, launch, saunter.

(c) "o" when occurring medially and sounded indistinctly is represented by ŭ, as in custom, mason, London, monopoly, gallop.

A long vowel tends to become short when it is unaccented, and in some words, such as proclaim, biograph, the vowels ō and ū are practically indistinguishable as ordinarily pronounced. In others, however, e.g., flotation, hotel, rotate, nobility, the vowel is unmistakably ō although unaccented.

(d) The unaccented "a" in such words as accurate, breakage, palace, including most adjectives ending in -ate, is represented by ĕ.

Here, again, the long vowel tends to become short when it is unaccented. Compare lace with palace. In some cases, however, including all verbs ending in -ate, the vowel "a" is long, although it may be unaccented. Compare moderate (adjective) with moderate (verb).

(e) ĭ is used in marriage, carriage, etc.

(f) The diphthong ĭ is used in words ending in -ization, e.g., realization, capitalization.

(g) The vowel sound after j or r in such words as Jew, juice, peruse, is ōō and not ū. After l, also, ū is generally represented as ōō unless it begins a syllable; e.g., include, flute, solution, but soluble, valuer.

(h) In French words such as patois, boudoir, soirée, etc., oi is pronounced wah.

(i) French eu. When the usual sign representing the vowel sound of eu in French words cannot be conveniently employed, it may be treated as ŭ; thus, raconteur, restaurateur.

(j) In such words as ranch, French, inch, punch, with regard to which authorities differ, ch which is believed to represent the more usual pronunciation, is employed.

NOTES AS TO THE PLACING OF VOWEL-SIGNS, ETC.

(1) Diphthong ū between two Strokes.—The diphthong ū when occurring between two strokes is treated in the same way as a third-place vowel; i.e., it is always written before the second of the two strokes; thus, Hercules, culinary, accurate, valueless.

(2) Diphthongs ĭ and ow. The diphthong ĭ is written out of its ordinary position for the purpose of joining finally to n, as in deny; and also in a few instances when following a third-place vowel; e.g., radii, nuclei, genii. The diphthong ow is written out of its ordinary position for the purpose of joining initially to l, as in owl.

(3) Diphthong oi.—It is permissible to write the first tick of the diphthong oi upward (i.e. as in the diphone awi), instead of horizontally, when it is more convenient to do so. This is the case especially when it is joined initially to l, thus, oil.

(4) The small circle used to represent a vowel occurring between the two consonants expressed by a stroke hooked for r or l is written after the stroke unless the presence of a hook or a stroke or of another vowel-sign renders the other side more convenient: thus, garnish, but regard; side car, but motor-car; shilling, but virulent; parlour, but parallel.

(5) Third-place Vowel occurring on same side of Stroke as shun Hook.—Any vowel- (or diphthongal-) sign other than a dot vowel is placed outside final shun hook; thus delusion, fusion, alleviation (but vision). All third place signs are written inside medial shun hook; thus, educational.

(6) Vocalization in Derivative Words.—A vowel in a derivative word, whether occurring in a (grammatical) prefix or suffix, such as re-, pre-, -able, -ance, or in the portion representing the root word, follows the ordinary rules as regards the stroke to which it is to be placed, and if it is immediately followed by another vowel, a diphone is used; thus, prefigure, measurable, severance, singer, unopened, unaccented, re-examine.

This does not apply to Compound Words, in which case the vowel-signs are generally placed as in the original words unless there is some special reason to the contrary; thus, headache, steam-engine, crab-apple; but seaman, black-eyed, to avoid placing a vowel-sign in an angle.

SUPPLEMENTARY RULES FOR THE CHOICE OF OUTLINES

The following rules and explanations are given in order to show the practice which has been followed in the selection of the outlines for various classes of words—

DIPHTHONG Ū AND CONSONANT Y

Stroke is used whenever convenient in words beginning with the sound of ū; thus, Europe, utilize, eulogy, unique. Note, however, usury and Euphrates.

ABBREVIATED W USED MEDIALLY

The abbreviated form of the consonant w is not joined medially to a preceding stroke except in a few COMPOUNDS of "woman," in which it joins easily, such as needlewoman, charwoman, and in sidewalk; hence woodwork, saleswoman, workwoman, silkworm.

W (SEMICIRCLE AND STROKE)

Initial w followed by a DIPHONE or a TRIPHONE is represented by the stroke ; thus, weigher, wooer, Wyoming.

S (DIRECTION OF CIRCLE)

In writing n s m the circle s is placed inside the m in the following cases—

(a) In DERIVATIVES and COMPOUNDS from words in which the circle is written inside the m; e.g., unseemly, unsummoned, tinsmith (compare newsmonger); also in the word insomnia.

(b) In words containing the syllable -some, e.g. noisome, handsome.

NOTE.—It will be found that, with only two or three exceptions, e.g., mincemeat, Norseman, and nursemaid, the form is used for n s m and the form for n z m, most of the examples of the latter being words ending in -ism, e.g., communism, galvanism.

S, Z (CIRCLE AND STROKE)

(1) Words ending in -nese and -nize, most of which are DERIVATIVES, are written with stroke n and circle s (z) whenever convenient;

thus, Japanese, Americanize, humanize, modernize. Note, however, revolutionize.

(2) Words ending in -nism are written with unless a better outline is obtained by writing hook n and The latter is found to be the more convenient form after — [but not or or Examples: Puritanism, religionism,  anachronism ; but mechanism, paganism. modernism, Wesleyanism.

(3) Words ending in -ess. All words (feminines) ending in -ess cannot conveniently be treated uniformly, but the following shows the practice which has been followed—

(a) In words ending with the syllable -ess, stroke s is used if necessary for the purpose of distinguishing the feminine singular from the masculine plural when no other means of distinction is available; thus, poetess, (poets), heiress (heirs), Jewess, (Jews).

(b) With regard to those words ending in -eress, -oress, -dess, -n(t)ess or -fess in which alternative methods of distinction are available, stroke s is used after or ; thus, archeress, manageress,  tutoress, murderess, vicaress, deaconess, countess, championess, chiefess : but in other cases the circle is written, e.g., viscountess, giantess, lioness, baroness,  mayoress, authoress.

(c) In words ending in -ress immediately preceded by a consonant, the final s sound is always represented by the circle; thus, actress, waitress, tigress.

(4) Words ending in -zoon are written with stroke z ; thus, epizoon, polyzoon (plural polyzoa) ; but adjectives ending in -zoic have the circle; thus, paleozoic, protozoic.

(5) DERIVATIVES from words with outlines containing stroke s (see also paragraph 48 of the Instructor and No. (3) below).

Derivatives formed by adding a suffix beginning with a vowel to a primitive word ending with s or z and a vowel retain stroke s or z; thus, cosier, lazier, pursuance, Sadducean, Puseyism, laziest, busiest.

Compare—(a) Secondary derivatives, such as spiciest, sauciest, glossier, the primitives of which are written with circle s; and (b) Derivatives in which the suffix does not commence with a vowel; e.g., drowsiness, merciless, ensued, busily.

S (STROKE AND CIRCLE); ST (AND LOOP)

(1) Initial s or st followed by a DIPHONE is written as follows—

(a) With stroke s or in DERIVATIVES such as sower, seer, stayer, stowage.

(b) With the circle or loop in other words, such as sahib, séance, sienna, stoic, Styrian.

Initial s or st followed by a TRIPHONE is written with stroke s or ; thus, Siam, suet, Stuart, steward, Stowell.

(2) Contrary to the general rule for words beginning with s vowel s, several words beginning with sist or (con)sist are more conveniently written with circle s first; e.g., system, cistern, consist, consistent, sisterly.

(3) While words ending in -ous preceded by a diphthong are written with stroke s in accordance with paragraph 48 (c) of the Instructor, their DERIVATIVES ending in -iously, -uously, -uousness and -uosity are generally written with the circle; thus, piously, strenuously, ambiguously, impetuosity.

The following, however, are cases in which the stroke is retained for the purpose of distinction— joyously, joyousness, ingenuously, ingenuousness, tenuously, tenuousness, sinuosity.

(3*a*) In other words containing s, z or st preceded by a TRIPHONE or by a DIPHONE, the circle or loop is used; e.g., bias, biased. quiesce, acquiesce, Genoese, essayist, truest, deist, Judaism, statuesque. The following are exceptions to this—prowess, (principles), dais, chaos, newest, (next), highest.

(4) Words ending in -astic or -istic are written as follows—

(b) With in other cases; thus, plastic. theistic, sophistic.

(5) is retained in DERIVATIVES from words with outlines containing , except the monosyllabic past tenses stayed, stewed, etc.; thus, stowage, dustiness, majestic, lustier.

ST (LOOP AND) ST)

Words ending in -nest, -nist; -fest, -vest, -vist; -test, -tist, -dest, etc., are written with the st loop unless a distinctly better outline is obtained by means of the stroke; thus, keenest, greenest. organist, briefest, bravest, faintest, fondest, artist, but plainest, earnest, toughest, positivist, kindest, hardest.

SST (, AND)

Words ending in -cest, -cist and -sest are generally written with ; thus, fiercest, publicist, closest; but is more convenient after n or r, as in nicest, empiricist; densest. is used in verbs ending in -sist, e.g., subsist, desist.

SZD ( ) AND)

COMPOUND WORDS ending in -sized are written with) except when) gives a better joining (as after f, v, or n); thus, fair-sized, full-sized, large-sized; but oversized, undersized.

SS, SZ (LARGE CIRCLE,)) AND))

(1) Words ending in -sis and -sus are written with the large circle; thus, basis, (plural bases), narcissus. Note also Francis.

(2) Words ending with the sound of sĕs or zĕs, or with s – $\frac{s}{z}$ separated by a diphthong or a diphone (including words ending in -cess, -cize and -size), are generally written with) or); thus, access, possess, capsize, gaseous; but after th, n or upward r,) affords a better joining, e.g., Gothicize, princess, Frances, recess, exorcize. The form) is used also in diocese and decease for distinction: and the common words success, exercise and emphasize, are written with the large circle for convenience.

(3) Words ending in -cism are generally written with the large circle; thus, fanaticism, Gallicism; but after (th, ⌣ n or ⟋ r, the form) gives more convenient and distinctive outlines; thus, Gothicism, cynicism, laconicism, exorcism, Doricism.

HOOKED STROKE AND STROKE R OR L

(1) Words ending in -metry and -metric are written with stroke r whenever practicable; thus, geometry, barometric, but planimetry.

(2) Words ending in -able or -ible are generally written with the hooked stroke ; thus, obtainable, measurable. The separate strokes , however, are used when a better outline is thus obtained; e.g.—

(a) After —, —, , , or after a circle following a "right" curve (but not after or); thus, excusable, accessible, invincible, reversible, forcible (but feasible, serviceable).

(b) After or ; thus, contestable, digestible.

(c) After , , or a downstroke hooked for v ; thus, explainable, discernible, provable.

(d) After a half-length stroke hooked for n ; thus, accountable, lamentable. (But note insurmountable.)

(e) After a shun hook ; thus, actionable, but in mentionable disjoined is more convenient.

(3) Words ending in -tal or -dal preceded by r are written with stroke l; thus, parietal, spheroidal. Compare the words rattle, riddle. A number of words ending in -tal preceded by n are also written with stroke l; e.g., mental, horizontal. Compare the word mantle.

(4) Words ending in -ful and -fully are written with stroke l in cases where a distinction between the adjective and the adverb can easily be shown by means of the downward and the upward l respectively; e.g., after —, —, , , or a straight upstroke; thus, wakeful, wakefully, manful, wrongful, sorrowful. In other words, including verbs, fl and vl occurring after the strokes mentioned above are represented by the hooked forms ; thus, scuffle, interval, upheaval.

(5) Words ending in -shly are generally written with ⌒, thus, foolishly, freshly. But note harshly, in which the stroke l is more convenient.

(6) On the other hand words beginning with unr-, enr-, unl-, enl-, formed by a prefix from words beginning with r or l generally retain the separate r or l; thus, unrest, unreasoning, unleavened, enlist. But note enlighten and enliven.

(7) Words ending in -ary, -ery, -ory, etc., are treated as follows—

(a) The hooked strokes are used when they give a more easily written outline than the separate r; thus, drapery. rookery, treasury, luminary.

(b) The hooked strokes are retained in adjectives derived from words written with a final hooked stroke, such as tottery, silvery, savoury.

(c) In other cases the separate r or l is written; thus, statutory, notary, factory, fishery.

(8) Derivatives ending in -ally and -alize from words written with a final hooked stroke retain the hooked form; thus, brutally, brutalize, locally, localize. But note totally which is considered a more convenient form.

(9) Words ending in -erate or -orate are often written with separate –rt if the latter gives an easily written outline and one which enables that of the past tense to be easily formed from it; thus, exaggerate, exaggerated; adulterate, adulterated; enumerate, enumerated. Compare deliberate, delivered, decorate, decorated. The outline elaborate is necessary for distinction.

(10) Derivatives from words written with hooked forms of the pr, pl series are generally also written with the hooked forms if practicable, even if the r or l is no longer in the same syllable as the preceding consonant; thus, tippler, trampling, saddling, tackling, doubly. Compare such words as seedling, duckling, which are not so derived.

(11) In COMPOUND WORDS, when the second part of the compound begins with r or l, that r or l is, as a rule, not combined with the last letter of the first part; hence, typewritten, bricklayer, necklace. But note typewriter and typewriting.

(12) In the case of verbs the hooked forms are generally preferred so as to enable past tenses to be written on the same principle; thus, bridle, bridled (compare bridal), model, modelled.

DUPLICATE FORMS FOR FR, VR, ETC.

(1) In DERIVATIVES and COMPOUNDS from words written with , etc., the form of fr, or vr, used in the primitive should, when convenient, also be used in the derivative or compound, without regard to the practice adopted in other words; thus, freeness, (compare furnace), offerer (compare friar).

Subject to the above—

(2) The "left" curves are used if more convenient for joining than the "right" curves. This is the case—

(a) When fr or vr occurs either before or after t, d, ch, j, f, v, th, s or z, as in tougher, leverage, effervesce, survivor, froth, zephyr.

(b) Generally before a character beginning with the same motion, viz. the "left" motion, as in friable, freckle, frank, France.

(3) In other cases the "right" curves are generally used, as verbose, Africa, fresh, frame.

(4) As regards thr and THr, are used initally when preceded by a vowel (i.e., as when standing alone); thus, Atherton, Atherley, otherwise; and

(5) In other cases the "right" curves)) are used, as thread, thrive, thrash, throttle, tether, zither, Arthur.

DOUBLE CONSONANTS (VOCALIZED) AND SEPARATE R OR L

(1) Medial r or l preceded by a strongly-sounded vowel is generally represented by separate r or l unless a hooked form is necessary in order to avoid an awkward or a too lengthy outline; thus ulterior, internal, fraternal, repel, but repulsive.

(2) Words ending in -torial are generally written with separate r, but the hooked form is used in a few cases to avoid an awkward or a very lengthy outline; thus, tutorial, equatorial, piscatorial, but reportorial, spectatorial, dictatorial.

(3) Words ending in -tarium, -torium, etc., are generally written with the hooked tr; thus, cometarium, moratorium.

(4) Words ending in -chord are written with half-length kr; thus, tetrachord, monochord.

(5) Words ending in -form are written with the hooked form, or , after | | / ( ) ⌊ ⌒ ⌢ or ⌒; thus, stalactiform, spongiform, aciform, curviform, vermiform. In other cases separate r is used; thus, napiform, cuneiform, metalliform, variform.

(6) Words ending in -culate, -gulate, -cular, -gular, and -culum are generally written with the hooked strokes kl or gl; thus, calculate, speculate, gesticulate, reticulate, articulate, circulate, matriculate, coagulate, regulate, binocular, angular, singular, curriculum.

(7) The prefix for- is represented by or, when this is inconvenient, by ; thus, forsake, forbear, but forget. This does not apply to the prefix fore-, which should be written with separate r (downward in preference) when convenient; thus, forecast, forenoon, foresight (compare ferocity); otherwise the hooked form is used: thus, foretell, foreshorten, forewarn.

(8) COMPOUND WORDS ending in -bird and -board are written with the half-length br whenever convenient; thus, jailbird, mocking-bird, blackboard, switchboard. But note pasteboard; also keyboard, for distinction.

FINAL N (STROKE AND HOOK)

(1) Words ending in -nian are generally written with the hook for the final n, even in the case of DERIVATIVES from words with outlines ending with hook n; thus, Etonian, Hamiltonian, but note Gladstonian, Augustinian, Athenian.

(2) Words ending in -n nt are generally written with hook n finally; thus, anent, assonant, dissonant. Final -n nt preceded by p, stroke t or v, or m is, however, written with stroke nt finally; thus, pennant, tenant, convenient, dominant, as are also the words consonant and sonant.

(3) Words ending in -t n or -d n are generally written with the hook for the final n; thus, fatten, wheaten, abandon.

(4) The final n is, however, represented by the stroke in the following cases—

(a) Words ending in -rt n or -j st n, such as Spartan, martin, congestion. Compare puritan, baritone, Samaritan, in which a vowel occurs between the r and the t.

(b) Most words ending in -ntine, e.g. turpentine.

(c) The words fountain, mountain, plantain, pontoon, bounden, and garden.

N PRECEDED BY TWO VOWEL-SOUNDS

Stroke n is used—(a) After a TRIPHONE consisting of ũ and a vowel; thus, genuine, constituent, pursuant. Compare lion, client, compliance, buoyancy, in which the n is preceded by other triphones.

(b) After two separate vowel-signs; thus, triune.

(c) In the words pioneer, giant, buoyant, heroine, ruin, and several words ending in -fluent, e.g., fluent, mellifluent. Compare other words in which n occurs after a diphone, e.g., crayon, cayenne, hygiene.

Note also words like recurrence, concurrent, in which stroke n is used although the two vowel sounds do not occur together.

MEDIAL N

(1) In the absence of any special reason to the contrary, stroke n is used between p, b, t, d, ch or j and full-length t or d: thus, pantaloon, bountiful, tantalize, dental, legendary;

(2) But the hook is used between the same strokes and half-length t or d, unless the n is followed by a vowel; thus, painted, potentate, daunted, enchanted, jointed, but penitent, originated.

Note, however, abandon and urbanity, in which the other circular movement in the outlines renders the hook more convenient.

Stroke n is used after only one downstroke having an initial attachment on the opposite side; thus, stranded, reprinted, branded. Compare disappointed, suspended.

(3) Hook n is used between r and n in such words as barrenness, modernness, but stroke n is preferred between sr or w and n; thus, sereneness, oneness. Similarly roundness, but windiness.

(4) Stroke n is generally retained in DERIVATIVES from words written with the stroke, other than those ending in -ic or -cy; thus, funnier, puniness; but euphonic, subserviency.

MEDIAL NS

(5) Stroke n is used medially before s or z, unless the hook is clearly more convenient; thus, Wednesday, wainscot, caravansary, but ransom, lonesome, Ironside.

(6) Two hooks together are generally avoided; hence plunger, ranger. They are, however, allowed in kindred, hundred, manger, philanthropist, and one or two uncommon words, as well as certain compound words (see next paragraph).

(7) In COMPOUND WORDS hook n is often retained medially, even where it would be avoided in other words; e.g., open-mouthed, penman, mainmast, rainproof, earthenware.

F, V (HOOK AND STROKE)

(1) Words ending in -tive (other than those which are contracted) are generally written with ⌊; thus, receptive, inventive. Exceptions to the above are captive, plaintive, comparative, and such words as attentive, retentive, digestive, suggestive.

(2) The stroke is used for f or v occurring between p or b (without an initial attachment) and t or d; thus, pivot, buffet. After or , however, the hook is more convenient; thus, private, brevity.

(3) Hook f or v is used between t, d or ch and t or d in DERIVATIVES as well as other words; thus sanctified, Cheviot. Note, however, defied, edified and deified, for distinction.

DIRECTION OF "SHUN" HOOK

Words like probation, correction, etc., are written in accordance with the principle of paragraph 95 of the Instructor; and decoction, adoption, inaction, etc., are also written in accordance with the spirit, though not the letter, of paragraph 96.

THE ASPIRATE

(1) Initial h followed by a TRIPHONE is represented by the upward or the downward stroke, and not by the tick; thus, Higham, Howard. hierarchy, hyaline, Howell.

(2) Downward h is used in a few cases to create a clear distinction of outline, as heritor (inheritor), heritable inheritable), or to provide a more easily written form, as heritage.

(3) Words beginning with hetero- are written with except before or when is more convenient; thus, heterogeneous, heterodox; but heterogamous, heteromorphous, heterology.

(4) COMPOUND WORDS ending in -house are written as under—

(a) With if convenient for joining, i.e. after p, b, t, d, f or a straight upstroke; thus, chop-house, club-house, gate-house. coffee-house, warehouse, hothouse.

(b) With after k, g, m or l; thus, workhouse, log-house, summer-house, ale-house.

(c) When stroke s gives a better joining than either or i.e. after ch, s, sh, n, ng, a circle or a hook; thus, coach-house, ice-house, wash-house, pigeon-house, alms-house, greenhouse.

(5) Downward h is retained in DERIVATIVES and COMPOUNDS of words in which h is the only consonant, if a syllable is added to the primitive word; thus, highness, highest, hoer, high-bred.

hay-loft. Compare hoed, hewn, etc., in which there is no added syllable.

(6) Medial h. With regard to words ending in -hold, -holed, etc.—

(a) The form is used after p, b, f, v, TH, or h; thus, uphold, copyhold, behold, foothold, overhauled, withhold, high-heeled.

(b) In other cases dot h and either or, if more convenient, are written; thus, pigeon-holed, stronghold, strangle-hold, leasehold.

UPWARD AND DOWNWARD R AND L

(1) Words beginning with st (vowel) r followed by stroke n have upward r; thus, consternation, sternutation, Stornoway.

(2) Final r is written upward (among other cases) after kr, gr or lk; thus, crier, grower, luckier; but downward after sk, or fk; thus, obscure, fakir.

(3) Final r in COMPOUNDS, as in other words is written upward after two downstrokes; thus, tax-gatherer, shooting-star.

(4) In words ending in -rest, -rist, -lest or -list the r or l is written upward or downward as when followed by a final vowel; thus, barest, fairest, imperialist, fullest, annalist.

(5) Medial r is nearly always written downward before m; thus, barium, emporium, forum. After th, however, it is written upward; thus, theorem.

(6) Medial r is also written downward in most DERIVATIVES from words written with downward r; thus, declarable, powerful, barely, furrier, maturely; but in words ending in -rial, -ral or -rhal upward r is used; thus, armorial, mayoral, catarrhal.

(7) Final l after or is written as after ; thus, egotistical, methodistical,  logistical, fantastically.

(8) L occurring finally, or with only a circle or loop following, is written downward after a half-length or double-length stroke if a more convenient outline is so obtained; thus, completely, shiftless, vividly, pectoral,  structural. Note actual and actually for distinction.

(9) Final l is written upward after downward l in genteelly, foully, etc., but downward after ld or lr in mildly,  scholarly, etc.

(10) Final l is written downward in COMPOUNDS of words written with upward l if the upward form would be quite inconvenient for joining, as in sand-eel,  train-oil, but the upward form is retained if at all practicable, as in port-hole,  stock-list.

(11) Medial l is written upward in biliousness and superciliousness, but downward in words ending in -lescence or -lescent; e.g., opalescence, coalescent. It is also written upward before whenever practicable; thus, realism, imperialism, but sensationalism, naturalism.

UPWARD AND DOWNWARD SH

(1) Final sh is written downward after t (or st); but upward after d; thus, latish, coquettish, crustacea, moustache, but radish, Swedish. Exception— brutish.

(2) Final -shŭs is written upward after t, d or sd but downward after st; thus, fictitious, seditious, but superstitious.

(3) The words mopish and mobbish are written with upward sh on the same principle as brush (see Instructor, par. 120).

(4) Final sh or sh s after upward l is written downward; thus, lash, slash, polish, malicious; but in the past tenses lashed, polished, etc., upward sh is more convenient.

COMPOUND CONSONANTS

(1) Wl and wh l. The compound consonants and are used in all words beginning with w l d and wh l d respectively; thus, wailed, weld, wild, wilder, wheeled.

(2) Rr. The use of is strictly confined to derivatives from words written with final downward r; hence, sorcerer, fruiterer, usurer.

The compound consonant is not used after l; hence, cellarer.

(3) The word queer is so written in order to keep it quite distinct from clear.

(4) Kw and mp, mb in COMPOUND WORDS. A consonant at the end of the first part of a compound word is not combined with a consonant beginning the second part; hence silk-worm, dumb-bell, tomboy. An exception to this is the word lukewarm.

HALVING PRINCIPLE

(1) A stroke is not halved when a better outline is obtained by means of the full t or d; thus, hotel, flotsam, graduation, indulge, integer, interior, tautology, litigious, lemonade.

(2) Words ending in -tatory, -datory, -dtary etc., are treated as follows—

(a) In the case of the termination -tatory the last t is generally written in full; thus, rotatory, excitatory, saltatory; but

(b) When the termination is -datory, -dtary, the halving principle is generally applied; thus, consolidatory, hereditary.

(3) Words ending in -tively following stroke t or tr are written with full t; thus,  authoritatively, illustratively.

(4) Words ending in -ctary, -ctory, -catory, -gatory, -ctarian, etc., are generally written with full t; thus, directory, purgatory, Tractarian. A better outline, however, is obtained by halving in such words as secretary, migratory.

(5) Words ending in -taceous and -dacious are written with full t or d; thus, cretaceous, mendacious.

(6) Although the halving principle is generally applied for the addition of either t or d in words of more than one syllable, in primitive words a thin stroke (other than or which can be thickened as well as halved) is not halved standing alone to add d, or a thick stroke standing alone to add t, unless there is a final hook or a joined diphthong; thus,  acrid, applaud, adroit, sedate, seclude. Exceptions to this are— convert, concord and conclude.

In past tenses of more than one syllable, however, a thin stroke may generally be halved; thus, seated, stated, uttered, offered, supplied, construed, committed, commuted; but note  echoed and essayed.

(7) The more common words ending in -pid are written with half-length p; thus, tepid, insipid; but

(8) Words ending in -pade, -ped, -pede or -pod are generally written with full d; thus, escapade, uniped, centipede,  tripod. But note quadruped, to avoid a lengthy outline.

(9) Words ending in k (vowel) d are generally written with full d; thus, arcade, naked, decoyed; but half-length k is used in a few words of more than two syllables, e.g.,  barricade,  cavalcade, and in the word  rescued.

(10) Words ending in g (vowel) t, however, are generally written with half-length g; thus, frigate, target.  nugget.

(11) As a rule the halving principle is not applied if the resulting outline would not be capable of full vocalization. It is, however, applied in the case of a number of words ending in -tism or -dism in which a more facile outline is obtained by disregarding the "i," viz., despotism, Jacobitism, patriotism, blackguardism, favouritism, scepticism, and several words ending in -matism such as, rheumatism. Compare such words as absolutism, conservatism, etc., in which the full outline is quite convenient.

(12) The halving principle is, as a rule, applied when t or d is preceded by a DIPHONE ; thus, create, druid, radiate ; but the t is written in full in poet, silhouette, and a few uncommon words and proper names.

(13) Stroke t or d is retained when convenient in the following classes of DERIVATIVES, viz.—

(a) Words derived, either directly or indirectly, from primitive words with outlines containing stroke t or d and not more than one other stroke consonant; e.g., pitiful, cottony, gluttonous, bedeck, undivided, becloud, overrate, outspread, overcrowd. The following are exceptional— beautify, beautiful, written, writing, undefined, indebted, subdivide.

(b) Certain secondary derivatives from primary derivatives written with stroke t or d, in which the stroke is retained for the purpose of distinction ; e.g., weightiness, greediness, heartily, flightiness.

(c) In words ending in -tieth, in order to prevent the possibility of confusion between seventieth and seventh ; fiftieth, and fifth, etc.

(14) In COMPOUNDS of words with outlines ending in stroke t or d that t or d is generally expressed by halving; thus, copyright, backbite, ice-boat, cow-hide, go-ahead, brush-wood. Stroke t or d is, however, retained after one half-length stroke, as in tit-bit, catboat, and also in a few cases in which the full t or d gives a more distinct outline, e.g., rosewood, jolly-boat, row-boat.

(15) In COMPOUNDS of words commencing with t or d, that t or d is not expressed by halving; thus, time-table, grave-digger, quarter-deck. Exceptions— sometimes and beforetime.

(16) Lt is generally written upward as in fault,  quilt, exult; but it is written downward—

(a) When preceded by an initial vowel and followed by m, as in ultimo, and

(b) After n, ng, vs or ns as in knelt, ringlet, vacillate, insult; also in the word dwelt.

(17) Rd. With regard to final rd, the forms veered, persevered, etc., are adopted because, although not strictly in accordance with the rule, they are quite distinct and more convenient than the possible alternatives , etc. On the other hand, in such words as geared, is a better form than , which latter would become indistinct in practice.

(18) In addition to cases in which would be actually inconvenient, is used for final rd in such past tenses as rendered, surrendered, wintered. (Compare windward.)

(19) Ld. When would be inconvenient ld is represented by the full form ; thus, quarrelled, belittled, scheduled, leasehold. Note: is sufficiently convenient in retailed, mild, lulled, etc.

DOUBLING PRINCIPLE

(1) The doubling principle is not applied in words ending in -lateral and -literal, double length l being used only in words in which it occurs finally and in words derived from these; hence, lateral (compare latterly), pluriliteral, poulterer (compare slaughterer), liturgy (compare lighterage).

(2) The doubling principle, which is applied in the case of most common words ending in -ture, is not applied in the following instances— literature, capture (the outline being required for captor), furniture, and words like departure and candidature.

(3) When the vowel in the termination tor is sounded distinctly, as in the legal terms grantor, vendor, guarantor, the doubling principle is not applied.

(4) The doubling principle is applied in a few cases although there is an accented vowel between t and r; e.g., interpret, enteric, dysenteric, tartaric, material.

(5) The doubling principle is also applied in the following cases, notwithstanding that there is no vowel between the t or d and the r—

(a) Several words containing central, centri- or -centric, e.g., central, concentric, eccentric, centrifugal.

(6) Words ending in -erate or -orate, although derived from words written with a double-length stroke, are written by means of the halving principle (i.e., in the same way as past tenses such as centred); thus, directorate, stadtholderate.

(7) The doubling principle is not applied when tr is preceded by a triphone representing a diphthong and a long vowel; thus, extenuator, punctuator. Compare proprietor, radiator.

(8) Joining of Strokes of Unequal Length. Paragraph 142 (a) of the Instructor applies to double-length as well as half-length strokes. Double-length n, however, is sufficiently distinct after t or downward l; thus, detonator, alienator.

(9) Double-length l is written upward, except after n, ng, ns or sk; thus, filter, beholder, gilder, but penholder, ringleader, insulter, scolder, helter-skelter.

(10) Double-length strokes may be used in such COMPOUND WORDS as the following— backbiter, chaff-cutter, muzzle-loader.

PREFIXES

Trans- is contracted by the omission of the n when it is followed by p, m, upward l, or the hooked letters pl, kr, gr, fr, and fl; thus, transparent, transmit, translation, transplant, transcribe, transgress, transfer, transfluent.

SUFFIXES

(1) With reference to -ing the stroke is used after although it does not give a very convenient joining, as the dot might be mistaken for a vowel-sign; thus, utilizing, releasing.

(2) When adding -ing, the outline of the original word is almost invariably left unaltered; thus, fancying, freezing, shelling, cleansing, hoeing, allowing, failing, piercing, pushing, rating. Exceptions to this are losing, lacing, etc., ailing, coalescing, convalescing, and writing.

(3) When the outline of the present tense ends with a joined diphthong, the latter is not retained ıı stroke can be joined; thus, renewing, pursuing, bowing.

(4) Outlines containing stroke ng, when used in the representation of the suffix -ing are vocalized in the ordinary way, whether the vowel is a third-place vowel or otherwise; thus, laying, gnawing.

(5) -ality, -ility, -arity, etc., are expressed by means of a disjoined stroke in the great majority of cases, including practically all of the large number of words ending in -bility. The words which are written in full include—

(a) Words ending in -alty, -iality, erty, or -iority, if the full outline is quite convenient; thus, penalty, cordiality, partiality, veniality, inferiority.

(b) Words in which the full outline is particularly facile, especially after a half-length stroke; e.g., fertility, austerity, maturity, verticality, personality.

(c) Words in which the -ality, etc., is preceded by only one stroke or by s or shun; thus, hilarity, facility, nationality.

(d) In a few cases for the purpose of distinction; e.g., juniority (geniality), locality (legality), disparity (disability).

(e) compatibility, accessibility, asperity, and a few other miscellaneous words.

A vowel preceding the disjoined consonant indicating the suffix -ality, etc., may, if necessary, be disregarded; thus, visibility.

(6) -ment is represented by ⌣ after ⌣ ⟋ ◟ or ◡, or a hook to which the full form ⌢ cannot conveniently be joined; thus, consignment, preferment, effacement, commencement, enchantment, pavement; also in enlistment. When ⌢ can be made convenient, it is often written in preference to the contracted form; thus, discernment, rescindment, amendment, assortment.

(7) The suffix ⌒ may be joined when occurring after full-length ⟋ r, ⌣ n or ⌣ ng, also, when convenient, after a hook (the preceding part of the outline remaining unaltered); thus, censorship, companionship, kingship, friendship, relationship. -Ship is written in full after ◜ l, as in fellowship; also in airship.

(8) Disjoined may be used in COMPOUND and other words in which -ship is not grammatically a suffix; thus, battleship, midshipman, lightship.

(9) -fulness is represented by the disjoined suffix except in delightfulness, doubtfulness and beautifulness.

GRAMMALOGUES

DERIVATIVES and COMPOUNDS from grammalogues are written by retaining the logogram (unvocalized) in the outline whenever a convenient and legible form is so obtained; thus, golden, thankless, deliverer, advantageous, would-be, twofold.

CONTRACTIONS

(1) With reference to the omission of medial t after s—see Instructor, par. 183 (c), when a vowel occurs immediately after the t, the latter is not omitted except in the following instances; viz. postal, postage, post-office, testament, testimony, procrastinate, investigate, mistake, domestic, pessimistic, optimistic, euphemistic, mediumistic, bombastic, futuristic, substitute, substitution, destitute, destitution, institute, institution, celestial, and derivatives from these words (mistook excepted). Compare pistol, vestige, sophisticate, mystic, plastic, rustic, etc., in which the t is expressed.

(2) In addition to the contractions appearing in the lists in the textbooks, contracted forms are also given in the Dictionary, as alternatives to the full outlines, for some other words, which are not considered to be of such frequent occurrence in general matter as to warrant their inclusion in the lists.

DERIVATIVE WORDS

The derivation of words must be regarded as one of a number of considerations affecting the choice of outlines, but while in the outlines of many derivatives the outline of the primitive word, or some particular feature of it, is retained, there are, on the other hand, many cases in which derivatives are written in accordance with the ordinary rules and principles of the system, without regard to derivation; e.g., remove, remover; bitter, embitter; hawk, hawker; ail, ailment; royal, royalist.

Words described as "derivatives" are taken to include any words that are apparently derived from other English words.

In the above notes, attention is drawn by means of capitals to the treatment of certain classes of derivative and compound words.

DERIVATIVES ANTICIPATED

In certain cases, including some verbs previously mentioned, words are written in a particular way so that their outlines may agree with those of derivatives formed from them, e.g., meddle, meddled; wanton, wantonly; clandestine, clandestinely; captive, captivate; inadvertent, inadvertently; exist, existence, sister, sisterly;

scientific, scientifically; shelter, sheltered.

COMPOUND WORDS

A number of classes of compound words have already been dealt with in connection with the various principles involved. With regard to cases in which the outlines of the primary words will not join conveniently, they are written disjoined if a better outline is not obtainable by altering one or both of them so as to admit of joining. (See also next par.)

DISJOINING

(1) Disjoining is not resorted to if a better outline can otherwise be obtained; thus, tactics, locate, densely, rearrange, but misfeasance, steadfast, mentionable, deaf-mute, spendthrift.

(2) Three straight strokes that would not make an angle are not joined together; hence picture-gallery, turkey-cock.

(3) Outlines in which one at least of three strokes is a curve are generally allowable although there is no angle; thus, papacy,  clockwork; but the combination is avoided; hence,  luckier.

(4) Sometimes an angle is shown in order to make a joining allowable; thus, escheat, Hebraized.

(5) More than two successive downstrokes including p b, d t, etc., are generally avoided by disjoining in such words as top-boots,  red-tapism, quarter-deck. Compare copy-book, seed-time,  tea-dealer, in which there are only two downstrokes.

OUTLINES AND VOWELS

Outlines, as a rule, are not varied in order to permit of a vowel-sign being placed exactly in its proper place; thus, legislation,  ceaseless, ingeniously, appropriately, meanwhile. In a few cases, however, in which an outline that can be more accurately vocalized is a better one from a practical point of view, it is adopted, e.g.,  doubtless. unsoiled.

In certain cases in which it would be difficult to insert an intersected vowel-sign it is disregarded; e.g., figurative,  calculated,  partiality.

SPECIAL OUTLINES

it has been found advisable, in order to secure the most convenient outline, to adopt a form which is not capable of being fully vocalized, or which is not written in accordance with the usual practice. A list of these special outlines, in addition to those already mentioned in this Introduction, is given below. It should be borne in mind that such outlines, except in the case of some derivatives from the words in question, must not necessarily be regarded as models for the formation of other outlines.

The following outlines are written out of their proper position for the purpose of distinction— ..... human, ... woman.

The Index to the Introduction will be found most useful where it is desired to refer to any word or class of word.

PROPER NAMES

In connection with these the pronunciation has been checked from the Century Cyclopedia of Proper Names, the Standard Dictionary, and other sources. It should be remembered that proper names have frequently more than one accepted pronunciation. In some instances, such as Grantham, Evesham, etc., there is a local and also an "outside" pronunciation, and in the case of foreign names some have an anglicized pronunciation while others are given a native pronunciation only. From the shorthand point of view some proper names require special consideration, and the following observations will serve to indicate the practice which has been adopted in various groups of words—

(1) When the nses circle is used, the vowel is understood to be ĕ: it is therefore necessary to write stroke n and the ses circle when another vowel occurs, as in Albigenses, Waldenses.

(2) Proper names ending in -ley preceded by the sound of k are generally written with the hooked letter; thus, Brockley, Hinckley.

(3) Words ending in -shire are generally written with the hooked letter shr; thus, Ayrshire, Aberdeenshire.

(4) Words ending in -ford are generally written with the half-length hooked letter (or); thus, Woodford, Catford, Oxford. The separate however is used after etc., as in Swinford, Cinderford, Chingford.

(5) The hooked letter is used for the terminations -borough, -burgh, -bury, when it is more convenient than the separate b-r, including cases in which it occurs after t, d, m, ms, l, ls; thus, Attleborough, Flamborough, Aldeburgh, Bloomsbury, Tilbury, Halsbury.

(6) Proper names ending in -ton or -don are treated in the same way as other words having those terminations (see page xxi); thus, Merton, Pemberton, Cheriton, Clifton, Bandon.

(7) Words ending in -field are generally written with , but after / or / hook f is used; thus, Duffield, but Lichfield, Sedgfield.

(8) In the majority of words ending in -ham the h is silent, e.g., Clapham, Seaham, Ashburnham, Tottenham, Rotherham, but in a few names of more than two syllables ending in -ingham, such as Birmingham, Nottingham, the aspirate is pronounced by some persons. There are also a number of names ending in -sham or -tham in which custom has sanctioned the sound of sh and th respectively, e.g., Horsham, Waltham, Bentham, though in others the s or t sound is retained, e.g., Topsham, Cheetham, Greatham.

(9) The h in the termination -hurst is generally represented by the dot; thus, Lyndhurst, Billingshurst. In a few instances, however, it is disregarded in order to obtain a more convenient outline, e.g., Pankhurst, Parkhurst.

(10) After k (among other cases) the terminations -wall, -well, are most conveniently written with ; thus, Kirkwall, Bakewell. After upward l, however, is sufficiently convenient; as Holywell.

(11) When the vowel in the termination -ville is sounded distinctly, the separate l is written if convenient; thus, Sackville, Granville, but Nashville.

(12) The termination -gate is written with full t; thus, Bishopsgate, Deansgate, Cripplegate.

(13) -wood, however, is generally written with half-length w; thus, Attwood, Kingswood. Exception, Heywood, to distinguish from Hayward.

(14) Words having the termination -worth are written with ; thus, Saddleworth, Nailsworth; or when necessary to avoid an awkward or too lengthy outline, with vocalized with wŭ; thus, Wandsworth, Wordsworth.

(15) In words ending in -ing, the dot is used after or or after following another stroke; thus, Epping, Wapping, Hastings, Twining, Spalding. In other cases stroke is written; thus, Tooting, Kettering, Hutchings, Harding, Jennings, Behring.

(16) In proper names p is not omitted when it occurs between m and t or m and sh; e.g., Hampstead (Hamstead), Ampthill, Compton, Assumption, Hampshire. In Campden the p is silent.

(17) In proper names having their origin in uncontracted logograms the logograms are retained, but may be vocalized; thus, Child, Gold, Short. Proper names having their origin in contracted grammalogues are written in full; thus, Lord, Liberty, Wordsworth, Yardley, Goodyear, Young.

(18) In several place names such as Kingston-on-Thames, Stratford-on-Avon, Burton-on-Trent, Clacton-on-Sea, Southend-on-Sea the preposition may be omitted.

(19) The following are so written in order to obtain an easy or distinct outline— Surat, Shetland, Thetford, Dudley, Jedburgh, Ushant, London, Carruthers, Sutherland, Weymouth.

DISTINGUISHING OUTLINES

The following distinguishing outlines should be noted— Frances, Francis; Persia, Prussia; Tenby, Denbigh; Dunbar, Edinburgh; Didsbury, Dewsbury; Bute, Bude; Symonds, Simmons; Wyndham, Wenham; Cobbett, Cobb; Hindley, Huntley; Wales, Wells; Mather, Modder; Barmen, Bremen.

NEW ERA CHANGES

THE following is a summary of the changes introduced in the "New Era" edition of the system by practically all of which some simplification of a rule is effected—

"Right" semicircle used to express initial w before k, g, m, and r (upward or downward).

Triphones used to represent a diphthong and any vowel (either short or long).

St loop used in words like steady, steadied, etc.

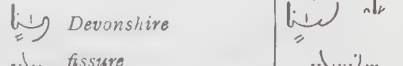
Shr always written downward.



Shl always written upward.

Singer, wringer, etc., now vocalized regularly.

"Right" curves fl and vl discontinued except after k, g, n, ng, or a straight upstroke.

"Right" forms of thl and THl discontinued.

Words ending in -cular and -gular are now as a rule written with the hooked strokes.

(Note.—The contractions regular and irregular are retained.)

In the case of spr, str, etc., following another stroke, the r hook is now shown whether the two strokes make an angle or not.

New Era Outline. | Centenary Outline.

-uation. The outlines etc., now accentuation vocalized with triphone.

Tick h no longer used before stroke s or z or before hooked strokes.

Hesse hazy

history Hastings

hatred Hudders-field

Dot h no longer used initially.

handed hundred

Final sh now written downward after upward l whether the word is a verb or not.

(Note.—Upward sh retained in the past tenses polished, etc.)

polish relish

Use of rer strictly confined to derivatives from words written with downward r finally.

Words in which the consonants are h-ld and w-ld now written with and respectively.

held

wild

Use of to represent ld discontinued.

quarrelled

mildly

Mpr, mbr represented by when following — k or an upstroke whether the word is a verb or not, the double-length being used in other cases.

lumber

Cumberland

Humber

Ng-kr, ng-gr when occurring initially or following a circle or an upstroke represented by , the hooked stroke being used in other cases.

anchor anchor-age

hanker linger

(Note. shrinker, retained as a "special" outline.)

conger

New Era Outline. | Centenary Outline.

Doubling principle no longer applied to ⌣ or ⌢

Y diphthongs discontinued (with exception of diphthong u), and diphone ʼ used for ia, ie, etc., even when monosyllabic. (=ya, ye, etc.)

W diphthongs restricted to medial use, and initial, joined semicircle used to represent consonant w only.

Use of ⌒ for Wil- discontinued.

Com in -coming is now indicated by disjoining.

Inter- and enter- are now written in accordance with the rule for doubling and ⌣ is given as a prefix representing intro-.

The hook prefix in- is no longer used before spr.

Words which are uncontracted and are written in their regular position are excluded from the list of Grammalogues and a few other Grammalogues are discontinued.

Logogram for for altered.

A few other contracted logograms and a number of contractions are excluded from the lists and are now given in the Dictionary only as alternatives to the full outlines.

New Era Outline.			Centenary Outline.
	or	religious
	or	religion
	or	generation
	or	Christian
	or	Christianity
	or	constitutionally
	or	Phonography
	or	saviour
	or	scripture

Logogram he now used only when joined to a preceding character.

In addition to the alterations referred to above, the outlines of a number of words have been regularized, e.g., travel, forefather, vastly, income. On the other hand, a few further words are given "special" outlines either for the purpose of distinction, e.g., burial, further, secretariat, or for convenience, e.g., typewriter.

Certain contractions which it has not been thought necessary to retain in the lists in the textbooks are now given in the Dictionary as alternatives to the full outlines; and alternative contracted forms are also given for some further words for which safe contractions may at times be desired.

NOTES

(a) All grammalogues and contractions, other than those which are fully vocalized (such as ⌒ cramped), are printed in italic; also any portions of derivative or compound words for which logograms or contractions are retained.

(b) Only logograms and contractions (and their derivatives when the primitive forms are retained) occupying a first or a third position have their positions shown by a dotted line.

(c) Capitals are employed initially only where such is the ordinary usage, as in the case of proper names and terms. In botanical, zoological, and similar scientific terms, the names of genera are capitalized; with species bearing the same name a capital would not, of course, be used. For example, Ranunculus, the genus; but ranunculus, a plant of this genus.
